

A group of stackable metal cups of carefully defined weights, with a sometimes-elaborate lid that holds them together.

Used with a balance from the Roman period through the Renaissance. Found in Iberian armory where it is blazoned a "mark."

(This charge was previously misidentified as an archery target, which can also be called a mark.)

Source: Libro de Armas y Blasones de Diversos Linajes y Retratos. Artist unknown.