

The control mechanism for a ship's rudder.

Although a ship's wheel was registered in the early days of the Society, this charge is no longer registrable because it doesn't appear to have been invented until the eighteenth century.